Dear Chris,

Las Vegas is honored to call the SHOT Show a valued partner, and truly appreciate the business it brings to our city each year. Your show, and industry, are extremely important to our destination.

During these challenging times, we truly believe partnerships, collaboration and communication is more important than ever. We greatly appreciate the efforts and commitment NSSF has made to continue planning for a safe and productive event in Las Vegas this coming January.

While no one can say with certainty what conditions will look like six months from now, what I can say with absolute certainty is that the safety and health of your exhibitors and attendees is paramount to your valued partners at ConvExx, Freeman, Las Vegas Sands, and Caesars Entertainment. Along with LVCVA, they are all working tirelessly to ensure the SHOT Show is produced with every safety and security precaution in mind. Measures like checking the temperature of everyone entering the facility, requiring facial coverings, managing occupancy levels and traffic flow to ensure proper social distancing and following all appropriate guidance from the CDC and Nevada public health officials are just some of the safety protocols being discussed as we speak.

I can assure you that all the resorts and convention facilities throughout Las Vegas are doing everything possible to prepare for safe meetings and trade shows during the months ahead. I am confident that everyone associated with the show will be ready and excited to host your industry, and the thousands of professionals it brings, for a safe and productive event in January.

Thank you again for your continued support and partnership in delivering first-class events to Las Vegas, and we look forward to welcoming the SHOT Show family in January.

Regards,
